Peanut Flour

When choosing the right peanut flour for your application, two important factors to consider are the fat/protein combination and the intensity of the roast. The right combination will help you achieve the desired nutrition and flavor attributes.

 Binds fat in confections and baked goods

 Lower fat alternative to whole peanuts

 Offers extended shelf life

Roasted Peanut Oil

Golden Premium Peanut Oil is made from U.S. high-oleic roasted peanuts which are mechanically pressed for a rich, roasted peanut flavor and aroma. Golden in color, it offers a high-quality, trans fat-free alternative for cooking oils. It also adds natural peanut flavor to salad dressings, soups, and even frozen dairy desserts, bars and more.

Peanut Extract

Our Gold Nut 20 Peanut Extract is a dark amber, high-oleic peanut oil that delivers a robust, consistent roasted peanut flavor and aroma. It's produced by mechanically pressing dark roasted peanuts, resulting in an all-natural, solvent-free extract with a clean label. Typical usage rates range from 2-4%, making it a cost-efficient option for bars, baked goods, confections, cereals, dressings, and more.
